

WeatherLive

EXTREME WEATHER

The ultimate day out for weather enthusiasts
An opportunity to talk about the nation's favourite topic

Saturday 10th November 2018
British Antarctic Survey, Cambridge

The Royal Meteorological Society is hosting an extreme weather conference to explore the severe weather events and climates around the world.

Whether its tornadoes or hurricanes, working in extreme conditions or communicating high impact weather, we'll take a closer look at extreme weather - its power, its beauty, its occasional absurdity and its fragility in the face of human activity.

So, join us for a day where we will push the weather to the extreme!

For more details and to register, please visit our website www.rmets.org/weatherlive